NOTES

Session outcomes:
- Identify key changes in the updated Interdisciplinary learning and teaching guide, including clarifying the revisions to the assessment criteria.
  - Note: There will be a few more tweaks to the guide prior to the first teaching (2021-2022 school year), but the majority of the information in the currently posted guide will stay the same.
- Address specific questions that IBMA members have about the guide revisions
  - Enter your questions and vote for one of the two extra options here
- *Extra options: Depending on time remaining in the 1 hr session, we could either:
  - Review the full updated guide more closely
  - Or, review one of the exemplar IDUs in the Teacher Support Materials

Please note:
- It will be helpful to download and orient yourself to the revised guide prior to the session: Interdisciplinary teaching and learning in the MYP (MyIB login required).
- In this session, we will review the key changes in the revised guide; we will not review the fundamentals of MYP ID unit planning, much of which are the same.
  - Therefore, if you need a refresher, it will be helpful to view the video of the IBMP Zoom session on interdisciplinary unit planning prior to the session. The information in this video supports the guidance in both the current guide and the new guide (except for the ID criteria and summative task shown in the sample unit plan).
